DEAR CUSTOMER

Due to the colder temperatures that come with winter, some lawns that come from our turf farms have been affected by frost. Frost is the freezing of dew which typically happens in the early hours of the morning. As the dew freezes, it has the potential to freeze the lawn's blades.

A frost affected lawn will present as discoloured but some lawns are effected more than others. Just the tips of the blade are affected, not the overall heath or root system of the lawn.

The good news is that frost will not kill your lawn. It can only discolour it so it's just a cosmetic effect. As soon as Winter turns to Spring, your lawn will awake from dormancy and begin to grow again. As it grows, it will re-grow the blades that have been burnt and a mow will take off the affected tips.

Please do not hesitate to contact us if you have an further concerns.

Kind regards,

AKERS OF LAWN
