
Noonan Fine Leaf Dwarf Kikuyu

Noonan Fine Leaf Kikuyu is a less aggressive kikuyu than most, with the regrowth time up to 3 times longer than the normal turf type kikuyu.

Appearance

- It has a finer leaf than most other kikuyu and the runners are not as thick or aggressive.
- It still sends runners out, as do all kikuyu and other winning grasses+but at a slower rate than other kikuyu.

Why Choose Noonan Fine Leaf Kikuyu?

- Being a kikuyu, it is the hardest wearing of all instant lawns
- excellent regenerative properties for self repair.
- This makes it an ideal back lawn where children like to play sports or where dogs like to run around.
- It is also excellent for holiday homes, being extremely water efficient
- suitable for places where watering can be spasmodic.
- can survive on very minimal watering, or rainfall alone
- (depending on the area and season).

General info

- Can be planted all year round
- Stays green all year round
- Growth slows down in winter but doesn't go dormant
- but may go slightly lighter in colour
- During the heat of summer, it may require one 1-2 good soakings per week once established.

Mowing

- regular mowing weekly to fortnightly recommended during growing season
- the recommended height approximately 25mm,
- with no more than 1/3 cut off the leaf in any one mow.

Fertilising

- Fertilising is recommended 6 . 8 weeks after laying and then once each season.
